What is a business model canvass?

The Business Model Canvas is a strategic management and entrepreneurial tool that helps businesses visualize, analyze, and design their business models. It was developed by Alexander Osterwalder and Yves Pigneur and introduced in their book "Business Model Generation."

The Business Model Canvas consists of a visual framework divided into nine key building blocks:

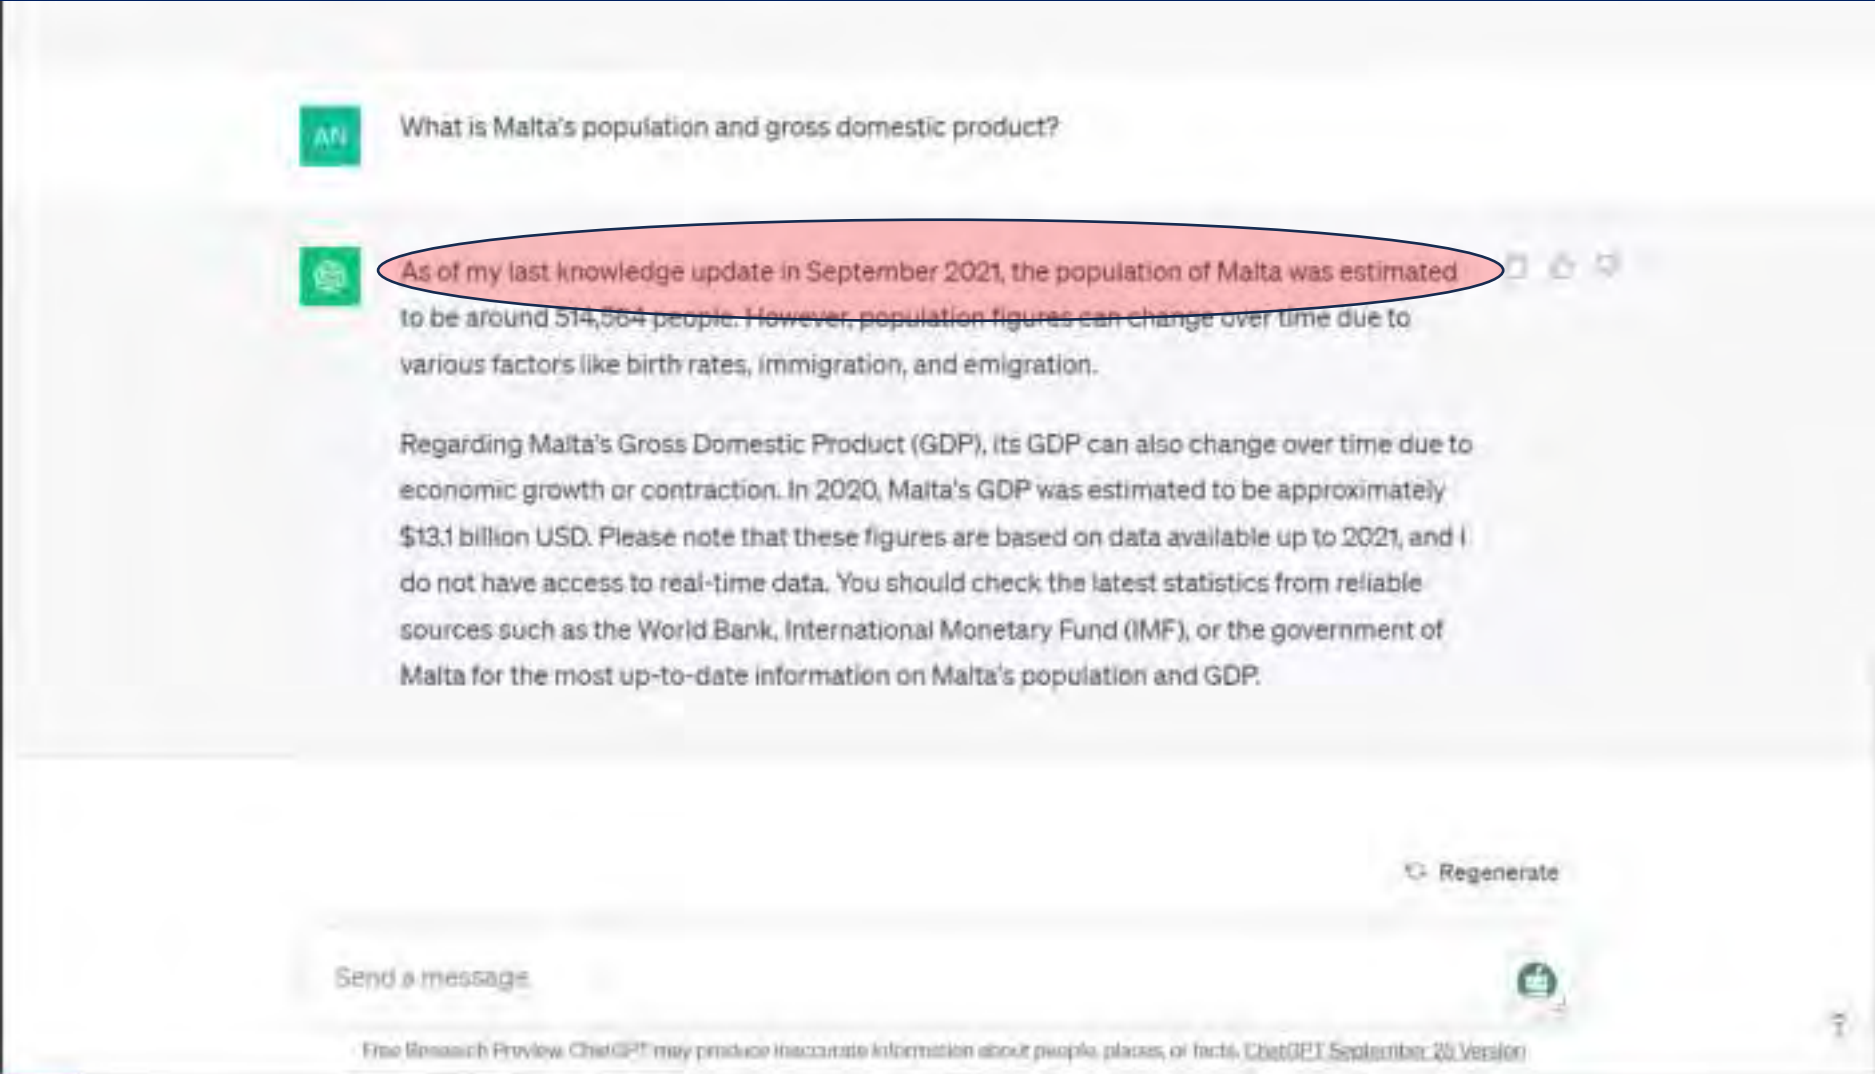

1. Customer Segments: Identify the different groups of customers or market segments your business aims to serve. These can be based on demographics, needs, behaviors, etc.
2. Value Propositions: Define the unique value or benefits your product or service offers to each customer segment. What problem does it solve, and why should customers choose your solution?
3. Channels: Determine the various channels or methods you will use to reach and engage with your customers. These could include sales teams, websites, social media, etc.
4. Customer Relationships: Describe how you intend to build and maintain relationships with

Appearance	Creative and attractive cover, clear organization, readable and neat, title page, table of contents.	Contains title page, table of contents	Poorly organized and difficult to read; lacking neatness.	No organization, missing significant criteria.	Absent structure and organization.
Support	Uses evidence appropriately and effectively, providing sufficient evidence and explanation to convince.	Begins to offer reasons to support its points, perhaps using varied kinds of evidence. Begins to interpret the evidence and explain connections between evidence and main ideas. Its examples bear some relevance.	Often uses generalizations to support its points. May use examples, but they may be obvious or not relevant. Often depends on unsupported opinion or personal experience, or assumes that evidence speaks for itself and needs no application to the point being discussed. Often has lapses in logic.	Depends on clichés or overgeneralizations for support, or offers little evidence of any kind. May be personal narrative rather than essay, or summary rather than analysis.	Uses irrelevant details or lacks supporting evidence entirely. May be unduly brief.
	61 - 80 marks	41 - 60 marks	21 - 40 marks	01 - 20 marks	0 marks
Content	Excels in responding to the assignment question. Interesting, demonstrates sophistication of thought. Central idea is clearly communicated, worth developing; limited enough to be manageable. Assignment recognizes some complexity of the subject; may acknowledge its contradictions, qualifications, or limits and follow out their logical implications. Understands and critically evaluates its sources, appropriately limits and defines terms.	A solid assignment, responding appropriately to the question. Clearly states a central idea, but may have minor lapses in development. Begins to acknowledge the complexity of central idea and the possibility of other points of view. Shows careful reading of sources, but may not evaluate them critically. Attempts to define terms, not always successfully.	Adequate but weaker and less effective, possibly responding less well to assignment question. Presents central idea in general terms, often depending on platitudes or clichés. Usually does not acknowledge other views. Shows basic comprehension of sources, perhaps with lapses in understanding. If it defines terms, often depends on dictionary definitions.	Does not have a clear central idea or does not respond appropriately to the assignment question. May be too vague or obvious to be developed effectively. Student may misunderstand sources.	Does not respond to the assignment question, lacks a central idea, and may neglect to use sources where necessary.

The Essay After determining an essay's topic, a student will need to analyse the topic, find information, evaluate these resources and present the information in essay format (TAFE SA 2014a). Requirements for essays can vary, but will generally include an introduction, body, conclusion and reference list (TAFE SA 2013). The completed essay will then provide evidence to the assessor of the student's research and learning (Hil Campbell 2014). The first step is to carefully analyse the topic in order to fully understand what is and is not required from the essay (Spur n d.). Usually a topic will be designed to give students an opportunity to develop an argument and the essay should generally agree or disagree with the central idea (Dawson 2013). Campdus (2002) stresses to ensure relevance, answer the question, the whole question and nothing but the question. Next, resources on the topic should be gathered from a variety of sources such as websites, books, newspapers or journal articles (Summers & Smith 2010). Lecture notes should only be referred to with the agreement of the lecturer (TAFE SA 2014b) and need only be given an in-text citation as these are considered a personal communication (TAFE SA 2013). A quick evaluation of each resource should be undertaken to establish that the information is up-to-date, relevant, and from a reputable author (Dawson 2013). The student should question whether the author's points are backed up by adequate and convincing evidence and why the author might have published this work (Hil Campbell 2014). After reading these resources, the student can form an educated opinion and begin to plan the flow of their essay (Jackson et al. 2000). The essay should be typed and include any specified formatting such as page numbering, appropriate headers, footers and a cover sheet (Spur n d.). Points made should be supported with quotes, statistics or records from the time (Carredus 2002), which according to copyright law must all be referenced (Commonwealth Amendment (Moral Rights) Act 2000; Dawson 2013, p. 106). At TAFE SA the Harvard system of referencing is required (TAFE SA 2014b). The introduction should comprise about 10% of the essay's word count (TAFE SA 2014a) to establish an overall point and provide any background information. The body of the essay will contain several paragraphs, each paragraph dedicated to an argument or fact, and each subsequent paragraph building support for the point of view being suggested (Levin 2004). This section should take about 80% of the word count (TAFE SA 2013). The essay should end with a clear and concise statement (Dawson 2013) that sums up the argument and matches the point of view expressed in the introduction (TAFE SA 2014a). On completion of the draft essay, a student should proofread their work for spelling and grammar (Jackson et al. 2000) and re-read the topic to double check that the essay has not strayed from the points being assessed (Carredus 2002). An appropriately formatted and well-researched essay serves not only as a tool for learning assessment, but develops ability to build an educated argument in a strong form of communication essential in many careers (Summers & Smith 2010).	References Carredus, G 2002, How to write a great history essay. The Age, 21 March 2002, viewed 16 July 2014, <http://www.theage.com.au/articles/2002/03/21/1016680121034.html> Copyright Amendment (Moral Rights) Act 2000 Dawson, C 2013, Academy study skills: a practical guide to learning for all students, Constable & Robinson, Penzance eBook Central. Hil Campbell, K 2014, 'Beyond the five-paragraph essay', Educational Leadership April 2014, vol. 71, issue 7, pp. 60-65, Macmillan Education. Jackson, J, Mrtan, T, Saunders, H & Archer, R 2000, Writing skills, Dorling Kindersley, London. Levin, P 2004, Write great essays: reading and essay writing for undergraduates and taught postgraduates, Open University Press, Maidenhead, UK. Spur, B n d., Successfully essay writing for senior high school, college and university, New Frontier Publishing, Epping, NSW. Summers, J & Smith, B 2010, Essay writing in Communication skills handbook, 3rd edn, John Wiley & Sons Australia, Milton, Qld. TAFE SA 2013, 'Structure of an essay', My information skills: how do I present it?, viewed 16 July 2014, <http://alexa.libraryguides.com/content.php?pid=421835&cid=3440707> TAFE SA 2014a, Doing assignments: essay writing, TAFE SA library guides, viewed 15 July 2014, <http://alexa.libraryguides.com/content.php?pid=272877&cid=2256239> TAFE SA 2014b, Essay writing: study guide, TAFE SA, Adelaide.

Reflective Notes

- Reflection is a purposeful activity in which you analyse experiences, or your own practice/skills/responses, in order to learn and improve.

Reflective Notes

“It is not sufficient to have an experience in order to learn.
Without reflecting on this experience it may quickly be forgotten, or its learning potential lost.”

Graham Gibbs 1988

Reflective Notes

What did I Learn?

I learned that each industry uses digital marketing differently to build their brand. Nike, Apple, McDonald's, and Goldman Sachs all have their own strategies. It's not just about putting out ads—it's about connecting with customers. Nike works with influencers, while McDonald's focuses on personalized deals through their app. Tools like SEO and content marketing help companies reach more people and keep them interested. What really stood out was how each company adapts these tools to fit their own style. This shows us that digital marketing can be flexible and work in many ways, depending on the brand's goals.

Reflective Notes

What went well?

I felt that our group did well in breaking down and explaining the strategies used by brands across retail, technology, food and beverage, and finance. The analysis of Nike's focus on influencers and how it creates a community was clear. I also liked how I discussed Apple's approach to innovation and simplicity, which really helps them stand out as a premium brand. McDonald's use of its mobile app and location-based marketing made sense to us as a way to keep customers engaged. Finally, our explanation of how Goldman Sachs uses content to build trust was informative. The balance between the different strategies in each industry made the presentation flow well. It was easy for the audience to understand how digital marketing can vary so much from one industry to another.

Reflective Notes

What could I have done better?

I could have made improvements within a few aspects of the assignment; First of all, I did not elaborate enough on the issue of how brands act on the new trends of the market. Furthermore, the addition of some real-life ads or campaigns and more illustrations such as graphs or charts would have also made the presentation more informative. The effectiveness of these strategies could have been presented with the help of more information on the results of the campaign. I also did not focus a lot of our time on the different forms of paid marketing. Lastly, a more visual example in the form of videos would have enriched the presentation even more.

Reflective Notes

Long-term implications

From what I have discovered, it is clear that in the present day's digital world, industries and brands must design their promotional methods to further entice consumers. For instance, Nike makes use of influencers in order to create a good base and relate with the customers. In comparison, Apple employs clean-shaven campaigns pointing towards its innovation and the brand's exclusivity for the superior end audience. Currently, McDonald's targets developing customer retention by sending promotional codes to the McDonald's application and offering its users to visit restaurants more often. On the other hand, Goldman Sachs establishes legitimacy by delivering valuable financial analysis and opinion leadership thereby establishing the firm as an authority and key player in the financial industry.

This shows that none of the above strategies can work for all industries. Instead, the success lies in tailoring the strategies by first knowing the needs and target audience of the brand. Some of the factors include; uniformity in the communication, variation according to the tastes of customers and quality of the interaction. Therefore, it is possible to consider that the application of these insights will be critical to creating the appropriate kind of marketing campaigns to create good brand value for an industry.
